

Psychology · Ecology · Sustainability

AN INTERACTIVE CONFERENCE
EXPLORING ROLES FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS
AND MENTAL HEALTH PROFESSIONALS IN THE MOVEMENT TOWARD A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

Lewis & Clark College, Portland, Oregon
June 8-10, 2007

Center for Continuing and Professional Studies
Graduate School of Education and Counseling
Lewis & Clark College
0615 S.W. Palatine Hill Road
Portland, Oregon 97219-7899

Registration Form

Mail: Center for Continuing and Professional Studies
Graduate School of Education and Counseling
Lewis & Clark College
0615 S.W. Palatine Hill Road, Portland, Oregon 97219-7899
Fax: 503-768-6045 or register online at lclark.edu/dept/ccps/ecopsych.html

FEES	By 4/20	After 4/20
<input type="checkbox"/> Full conference (professional)	$225	$275
<input type="checkbox"/> Full conference (student)	80	130
<input type="checkbox"/> Full conference (presenter)	195	195
<input type="checkbox"/> One day (professional) ___ Fri ___ Sat	125	150
<input type="checkbox"/> One day (student) ___ Fri ___ Sat	45	70
<input type="checkbox"/> Continuing education certificate	25	25

Lodging in Residence Hall.*
___ night(s) @ $50/night (includes all meals): ___ Thur ___ Fri ___ Sat

TOTAL to be paid by check or credit card: _____

Attendance limited. Register early to ensure a space.

*Please call 503.768.6040 for information on shared rooms.

Name _____

Address _____

City/State/Zip _____

Phone (home) _____ Phone (work) _____

Email _____

Payment by check enclosed (payable to Lewis & Clark College)

Charge my VISA MasterCard

Print name as it appears on card

Cardholder name _____

Date _____ Amount $ _____

Card #

V-code Expiration date

Signature _____

For more information visit lclark.edu/dept/ccps or call 503-768-6040

on back of credit card

Psychology · Ecology · Sustainability

An Interactive Conference Exploring Roles for Psychologists and Mental Health Professionals in the Movement toward a Sustainable Future

LEWIS & CLARK COLLEGE, PORTLAND, OREGON
Friday morning through Sunday noon, June 8-10, 2007

Psychology for a Sustainable Future

Join us for three days of presentations, experiential workshops, dialogues, and small group discussions, as we consider interventions at the critical intersection between psychology, ecology, and sustainability. Our gathering will culminate with a creative 'open space' process on Sunday to consider strategies and plans for effective personal and professional engagement in the struggle for a sustainable and psychologically healthy future.

Co-sponsored by the Center for Earth Leadership and the Department of Counseling Psychology, Lewis and Clark Graduate School of Education and Counseling

Who Will Be There?

The P-E-S conference will bring together a diverse group of psychologists, educators, researchers, and other mental health professionals. We also welcome environmental scientists, activists, and innovators in the sustainability movement, including those involved in green business and design.

Continuing Education Opportunities

Up to 12 hours of Continuing Education Units for psychologists, counselors, and social workers may be earned by attending designated workshops and presentations.

CONFERENCE THEMES

Psychological concepts, theories, and research findings that are relevant to...

- Understanding human-nature relationships and the health benefits of green spaces.
- Addressing mental health issues related to consumerism and ecological degradation.
- Minimizing hopelessness and despair, overcoming denial, and inspiring change.
- Improving the effectiveness of grassroots sustainability initiatives.

New directions in research, therapy, and professional practices for psychologists and mental health professionals.

These directions may be inspired by work in psychology, environmental science, or the sustainability movement.

How psychologists and mental health professionals can become involved in actively applying our knowledge and experience to promote sustainable lifestyles, grassroots efforts, and political initiatives.

For full information on the conference, visit <http://www.earthleadershipcenter.org/psf/pes> or contact Meghan Mix at pesconference@nwei.org or 503-227-2807.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Allen Kanner, Ph.D., is an activist, author, and child and family psychologist who has been fighting the commercialization of childhood since the early 1990s. He is co-editor of Psychology and Consumer Psychology: The Struggle for a Good Life in a Materialistic World and Ecopsychology: Restoring the Earth, Healing the Mind, and is a founder of the Campaign for a Commercial-Free Childhood. In 1997, Utne Reader recognized him as one of the nation's leading psychotherapist activists.

Sarah Conn, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist with a private practice in Arlington, MA. She is a co-founder of the Ecopsychology Institute and was a Lecturer on Psychology at the Harvard Medical School, Cambridge Hospital for 20 years. She wrote "When the Earth Hurts, Who Responds?: Self, Responsibility and Psychotherapy" in Ecopsychology and "Living in the Earth: Ecopsychology, Health and Psychotherapy."

Steve Chase, Ph.D., is the founder and director of the Environmental Advocacy and Organizing Program at Antioch University New England. He teaches courses in environmental activism, organizing social movements and campaigns, organizational leadership, and environmental justice. Chase is the editor of Defending the Earth: A Dialogue Between Murray Bookchin and Dave Foreman and has published several articles, including "Changing the Nature of Environmental Studies: Teaching Environmental Justice to 'Mainstream' Students." He also edits "The Well-Trained Activist" blog and hosts a community radio series called "Make Your Vote Count."